Wendell Phillips' Ticket.

The following is the per-oration of the speech lately delivered in Philadelphia by Wendell Phillips, the distinguished Radical orator, a notice of which has heretofore been published in the Gazette. It was received with raptures of applause, and will serve as a specimen of the whole. Is it strange that there should be a solid Democratic South?

Now I propose a Presidential candidate that shall be a notification to the world that the North is color blind, blind as the words of our Constitution, blind as God Himself. I will have for President whom you choose. Public opinion shall name him. I only want, in accordance with my experience which I gathered from the little Latin I know, as posies double, to learn from the enemy, that it shall be a name whose election shall make every white knee in New Orleans tremble. I want a name that if he sees the condition of Louisiana will be willing to describe it. It has never been described in Congress. It is nothing but an insolent white minority endeavoring to put the white and black industries, law-abiding and peaceful majority, under its feet. That is Louisiana. I do not care for Maine, nor law, nor parliamentary struggles, nor the passion of legislative halls. That is play, child's play, and the only man whose word has ever indicated that he understood it is the President of the United States. [Applause.] I have no such dread of the American people, as that they have any superstition of a third tier [applause]; but the man who is to preside over the Senate must be a negro! [Sensation.] The Vice-President of the United States, in order that the North, resting with an upright faith, may make the South, down to Mobile, understand her, must be Frederick Douglass. [Applause.] The North, if she means in this battle, that is as yet on the very edge of the contest, to be unshakably understood, must put down a mile stone that knows no difference of color. She must remember the people the distinction between white and black. It may be that this may have surprised some of you, that I shall be called a fanatic, that it would be thought presumptuous to name a black for the Vice-President of the United States, but it may carry forward the time and the conviction into the Southern white, in this battle, "I have not only been defeated in the battle field, but I have been defeated in the conscience of the North." There is actually on the other side of Mason and Dixon's line a purpose which these seeming hesitations has not reached. What was to be done to the man who was proved to be a man of truth? Proclamation was made in the streets of the Eastern capital that he shall be attired in the royal purple and a golden crown shall be put on his head and he shall be carried through the streets of the King's city and the herald shall proclaim: "Here is to him whom the King delighted to honor, and when a black face is set in the Vice Presidential chair of the Senate, and when the United States records its verdict, not on condition, then every man of the whole forty States will know that there is something deep down in the intellectual recognition and the moral purpose of 40,000,000 of people, which no struggling of reluctant shoulders, no breaking up of pecuniary relations, no bloodshed in the streets of Southern cities, no indifference in reference to the struggles of a race, can offset; and that the United States in the next half century together is to go on in one unflinching, unbroken progress as between North and South, black man and Indian, and of all the races gathered under the shelter of its flag.

Advantages of Work in the Country.
To the editor of the Alexandria Gazette:
It is not wrong in our young men to complain so bitterly of the hard times? To say they are debarrd from all social enjoyment; to make the old repeated affirmation, "I'm too poor to marry," and continuing to lead their present lives? What praise is due to the noble-hearted fellows who, tired of a life of dependence, have broken off from their idle companions and gone to themselves—to work! Would that more of them could tear themselves from the villages and towns and go to the country. To test the difference of living in town and country, let us apply figures: Good board in town is $35 per month; washing $2 more. Can any of us get along with less than $5 spending money? Total, $42. The $5 spent in theatre going or in (horse pleasures) riding or driving, will not go very far, in fact will go but a little way in any amusement. Now in the country there are many home—offered to young industrious men. To start the establishment and one hundred acres of land, one man servant $12 per month, one woman as cook and house servant at six dollars; a horse can be kept nicely for six dollars more; making a total of $24. By living a little hard for a few weeks, until turnips do grow, the $13 will answer very well for the three; then the garden will give its bountiful treasures; the pastures its milk and butter, lessening the expense on the horse. How many families are raised on less than $50 a year each—actual expenditure for food? The history has been started and done its part. The horse has not been altogether a non-producer; several dollars have been earned with him; the non-servant has done outside work enough to pay half his hire, and also gotten everything ready for the spring work. And our young gentlemen's wardrobe is in a better condition than most bachelors can boast of, thanks to the cook, and he is in such a good humor at having the privilege of ordering his dinner when, and however he may want it, and of riding his horse wherever he chooses that he is out sparkling! The shrieking, timid, dependent creature is now dashing about on a fine horse, a different man, singing blithely: "I lo'e a lassie, I lo'e her weel, and the lassie, she lo'es me!" More anon from the YOUNG BACHELOR.

LEIGER'S FLUID (RED), THE UNIVERSAL DISINFECTANT. (Permanence of Soda.) It is the only true disinfectant known, all other preparations sold for this purpose being merely deodorizers (or articles which possess the property of overpowering unpleasant smells by their own pungent and often disagreeable and dangerous qualities.) It is particularly adapted for disinfecting sick rooms, cases of typhoid fever, cholera, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and all contagious diseases, and for purifying rooms in which there are dead bodies, removing at once all unpleasant smells, and destroying effectually any latent germs of disease. By using the diluted fluid in dishes or basins, about bed chambers, school rooms, work shops, hospital wards, &c., it keeps the air in a perfect state of purity. For stables, slaughter houses, butchers' shops, dairies, cellars, &c., it is invaluable, keeping them in a perfectly wholesome state, by merely sprinkling the disinfectant about the floors and walls. It keeps dust, water closets, drains, urinals, &c., sweet and wholesome, by using once or twice a day. For sale by JANNY & CO., 145 King street. sep 13
